

Honolulu, February 11, 1902.

PRINCE J. K. KALANIANAOLE, Honolulu, H, T.

DEAR SIE:-Mr. Ernest Hogan hereby presents his compliments to you and begs to thank you for the many courtesies which you have extended to him during his recent stay in your city, and for the very kind treatment and respect which you have shown him on almost all occasions. He desply regrets the unfortunate occurrence of this afternoon in the office of the Kapiolani Estate, Ltd., and particularly any action done, or words spoken on his part, which may have been the grounds of offence at the hands of a gentleman of your well known attainments and courteons instincts However, there were some statements made at this meeting which Mr. Hogan as a gentlemen is loath to allow to pass, without communication to you. He refers more particularly to the statements made by your honored self and which attacked his honor and reputation as a gentleman. When such statements are made by a person of your rank and station, that of a Prince of the Royal Blood of the Kamehamehas, the indignity which you heaped upon him becomes more lasting and is one which leads him to call even one of your station and rank to account,

Unfortunately these statements were made in the presence of many persons of good standing and bearing in your community, and the intention on your part to lay violent hands on him and afterwards followed by the attack on his person, and culminated in the calling of an officer of the law to eject him from the office of the Kapiolani Estate (which said officer fortunately failed to do, even to laying hands on his person).

Out of the consideration for the lady present and also more out of the kindly feeling which occurred to him at the time, not to embroil a person of your rank, a Prince of the House of Hawaii, in a common street broil, he refrained though much against his better nature, which impelled him to resist force by force. It is therefore with regret that he has to demand satisfaction even though it is from a person of your rank, and requests that you send your agent or servant with instructions as to the method which you desire to give him the satisfaction which he requires. In as much as your reputation for physical prowess is well known, upon your native soil and also throughout the world, yet he suggests this method of determining and deciding the issue between you, and though in suggesting this, yet he does not wish to influence you, upon any method that you may desire-

His sentiments in addressing this communication to you are that you give that satisfaction which is due one gentleman from another, or that an apology be forthcoming from your honored self.

Mr. Hogan begs to state that he is booked to leave on the Sonoma, but nevertheless is willing to await your royal pleasure, and begs to subscribe himself, as your humble servant.

shall stay here until I get my rights. It is not a matter of money but of principle. Incidentally, I have a desire for satisfaction, and hope to get it from Prince Cupid, before I leave."

With this platform Ernest Hogan, the author-actor-manager, whose visits to Honoluly have furnished topics for comment other than upon the merits of his performance, declared last evening that he was ready to fight it out if it took all summer (and there was a sufficient amount of advertising matter written to make the stop-over pay). He said also that the letter requesting sat isfaction from Prince Jonah Kalanianacle had been delivered last evening. and that up to midnight no reply had been communicated to him.

Both the determination of Hogan to stop in the city after the rest of the company, which has been here for the past three months, have gone, for they as manager of the company in the sire for a fight with the athletic prince came as a result of yesterday's developments in the settlement of the claims of the minstrel players against the hui which brought them here in general, and John F. Colburn in particular, There were several encounters, and two downs the police had to be sent for and at one time there was the opening at one time there was the opening of a good 'scrap," as it would be put in rag time. In fact, the afternoon's engagement was one of syncopation and mastication.

which the company has played has been bad, and the money has been light, yet after threats of trouble and two weeks played without any charges for the theater, simply to give the actors a chance, it was decided that payment should be made and all the original agreements carried out. This was done practically with the members of the company, excepting Hogan and Ringgold, the stars of the aggregation brought down. When it came to that settlement there was pilikia. Before he left Colburn had given his power of attorney to Morris Keohokalole, with instructions concerning the money.

Hogan received something like $575 salary, and then came the matter of transportation. The split came over sleeper and meals on the way from San Francisco to New York. Judge Davis was the arbitrator and decided that fare would be $85, berths $20 each and meals would cost $5 a day each, as But there came a hitch. An attempt was made to see Prince Capid last evening, but no answer was made to a telephone call. Hegan, having more at stake, as there could be no finer advertising matter, was ready to give his side. He said: 'I was promised transportation to New York for myself and Miss Ringgold, and I will not go in the Squema, but will stay and try to get what I deem my rights. I will take legal steps if there is no peaceable settlement possible. The amount is small, but I have a right to fight for a principle. Miss Ringgold was taken to the office of Cohen and an effort made to induce her to sign a paper without consulting me, but she Department upon on-the time. Then, too, I have been insulted. Violent hands have been laid on me and only my love of peace has kept me from an open brawl. I was told that I was no gentleman. I am a Kentuckian, and I cannot brook such insults. I will fight for ray honor. I do not know when I will get away, and that is now a secondary consideration. I will be here when I am wanted. Others of the company will go on to the United States, and McLain and I will get to gether later, if I leave here alive.

"Not only am I a Kentuckian, but have royal blood in my veins, and reigning blood, too. At birth we respire, at twenty-five aspire, at eighty expire. This is the beginning, the sum, and the end of us, according to the philosophic mind of Hugo. He states the phenomena of life tersely, and with the touch and meaning of a master. That is all right for those who are in a frame of mind to philosophies. The panorama of life is one thing; its detail and analysis quite another.

Nature fashioned us all to be healthy. She did more; she secreted roots and herbs in her fields and forests to assist some of us to maintain this health, or regain it when lost.

There is a gentleman living at 373 Bourke street, Sydney, whose interesting story illustrates this in a practical. common-sense way. "Six years ago," he writes. "my health broke down bad-My appetite got to be fickle and uncertain; then failed entirely. What I forced myself to swallow did me but small good. In fact, it often gave me such discomfort and distress that I actually dreaded to sit down to table "After a while my stomach and other digestive organs became so upset and disordered that I was practically forced to live-or rather exist-on a diet of slops, gruel, weak broths, etc., and even these things occasioned me considerable pain and inconvenience. Medical treatment did me no good whatever. From time to time I tried all sorts of medicines that were recommended to m.e. or that I saw advertised, but with no better results. I became so debilitated that my relatives thought I was going into a decline. In truth I was fearfully thin and wasted. At this the stage of my trouble a friend said I ought to try Seigel's Syrup. He made the strongest kind of a point of it, and pressed the idea upon me. I yielded. and it was the best investment I ever

Seigel's Syrup is made of eighteen natural ingredients, each of which is a product of the soil. Its curative properties are derived from roots and herbs scientific combination, and its healng action has been acknowledged in all civilized parts of the world during past thirty-three years. Kept handy for occasional use, it keeps the body strong and the functions active. This is the way to resist diseases, void the daily miseries which take the snap and go out of life. There is a difference between living and existingas Mr. Fisher relates.
